HESLIN ROTHENBERG FARLEY & MESITI P.C.

David P. Miranda is a Partner with the intellectual property law firm of Heslin Rothenberg Farley & Mesiti P.C. of Albany, New York. He is an experienced litigator whose intellectual property law practice includes trademark, copyright, and licensing matters with particular emphasis on Internet related issues. He has litigated cases before federal and state courts as well as federal agencies and has argued before New York's Court of Appeals. Mr. Miranda serves as an Arbitrator of intellectual property disputes for the National Arbitration Forum and has rendered decisions regarding disputes involving such famous trademarks as McDonald's, Amazon.com, Bausch & Lomb, and ChevronTexaco. Mr. Miranda commenced some of the first domain name dispute proceedings before the World Intellectual Property Organization and was counsel in one of the first New York cases determining the enforceability of online agreements.

In 2002, Mr. Miranda was appointed by Hon. Judith Kaye, Chief Judge of New York's Court of Appeals, to the statewide "Commission on Public Access to Court Records." He served as Editor-in-chief and contributing author of The Internet Guide for New York Lawyers, in 1999 and is the author of Defamation in Cyberspace: Stratton Oakmont, Inc. v. Prodigy Services Co., published by the Albany Law Journal of Science & Technology, in 1996. He has served in the House of Delegates for the ABA and NYSBA, and is Chair of the NYSBA's Electronic Communications Task Force. He is a recipient of the Capital District Business Review's "40 Under Forty" award for community service and professional achievement.

Mr. Miranda received his Juris Doctor degree from Albany Law School and Bachelor's degree from the State University of New York at Buffalo. He is admitted to practice in New York, U.S. District Courts for New York's Northern and Western Districts, Massachusetts, the Second Circuit Court of Appeals and the U.S. Supreme Court.
